

Title:	Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Nutrition and Dietetics
Department:	Nutrition
Faculty:	Medical & Health Sciences
Term of Contract:	Full time
Salary Range:	Appropriate level on academic scale
Small text for advert:	Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Nutrition and Dietetics , to be based within the School of Medical Sciences, Faculty of Medical & Health Science, The University of Auckland
Job Profile:
Purpose Statement:	To perform research, teach, help administer and act as primary student contact for Master of Health Sciences in Nutrition & Dietetics.
Responsible To:	Prof Lynnette Ferguson
Key Accountability Areas:	Teaching/Supervision <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Provide postgraduate teaching and supervision of nutrition and dietetic students. 2. Assist with the coordination and administration of the teaching of courses in the Master's of Nutrition and Dietetics 3. Assist with the coordination of dietetic student placements 4. Liaise with and support dietitians in the workplace who are involved with the supervision of students on placement 5. Supervise dietetic students on placement 6. Supervise the research activities of postgraduate students 7. Undertake continuing personal professional development
	Research <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Make a contribution to the research activities in nutrition and dietetics 2. Publish papers or other scholarly works in academic journals and the like 3. Present research and act as a discussant at academic conferences
	Service <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Performing administrative tasks commensurate with position responsibilities and contribute to processes that enable the effective operation of the School and Faculty. 2. Ensure the observance of University policy and codes of practice in teaching, research, community service and administrative practices 3. Contribute to the development of a School working environment of teamwork and cooperation 4. Attending appropriate staff development courses as the need arises Community <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 5. The candidate would be expected to belong to Dietitians New Zealand
Person Specification:
Qualifications:	Candidates should hold a PhD (or equivalent) in a research area relevant to the Nutrition and Dietetics. The successful candidate would be required to be or eligible to be a New Zealand registered Dietitian
Experience:	Candidates should have experience in teaching relevant aspects of nutrition to undergraduate and/or postgraduate students. The successful applicant will be expected to demonstrate independent line of research and preferably will have published in peer-reviewed journals
Attributes and Skills:	The ability to be flexible and work to as part of a multidisciplinary team would be highly desirable.